

Growing Neural Networks Achieve Flatter Minima

Caillon and Cerisara | ICANN 2021

This fixture summarizes a real paper on optimization and generalization.

The paper studies networks that add neurons incrementally during training and compares the minima they reach against fixed-size models trained from scratch.

The reported result is that the grown models converge to flatter minima and generalize better.